Contributors

I. Statistical methods

1. Applications of large-sample sequential tests to the analysis of survival data (DR Jones, J Whitehead)
2. Advantages and defects of single-centre and multicenter clinical trials (D Machin, MJ Staquet, RJ Sylvester)
3. The experience of the EORTC-Gnotobiotic project group in planning, organizing, performing, and evaluating cooperative clinical trials (W Gaus)
4. Survival studies using a computer-based hospital registry of 29,000 cancer patients (MK Parmer)
5. Controlled clinical trials and the importance of medical judgment (R Burkhardt, G Kienle)
6. Heterogeneity and standardization in clinical trials (R Simon)
7. Interim analysis and early results in clinical trials (C Hill, H Sancho-Garnier)
8. Feedback of data to participants during clinical trials (RJ Prescott)
9. Can sequential methods be used for the analysis of cancer clinical trials? (SJ Pocock)
10. The necessity and justification of randomized clinical trials (DP Byar)

II. Toxicity and therapy

11. Quantitative and qualitative prediction of toxicity from animals to human (A Goldin, M Bozencweig, AM Guarino, P Schein)
12. Thoughts on a role for cell kinetics in cancer chemotherapy (L Norton)
13. Cell kinetics, a guide for chemotherapy? (LM van Putten)
14. Protected environment and prophylactic antibiotics as an adjunct to cancer chemotherapy: how useful? (J Klastersky)
15. Controversies in screening for early diagnosis of breast cancer (AM Stark)
16. The MRC trial of low-dose preoperative radiotherapy in operable rectal cancer (SJ Arnott)
17. Preoperative radiotherapy for colorectal cancer – Veterans Administration group[studies (GA Higgins)
18. Preoperative radiotherapy in rectal cancer (MW Stearns, Jr)
19. The clinical relevance of histopathologic classification in non-Hodgkin's lymphoma (SE Come, CP Canellos)
20. Clinical relevance of the Kiel classification of non-Hodgkin lymphomas: preliminary results of a prospective multicentric study (G Brittinger et al)
21. Management of patients with early stages of ovarian carcinoma (E van der Schueren, D Gonzalez, K Breur)
22. Immediate versus delayed lymph-node dissection in stage I melanoma of the limbs (U Veronesi)

23. Efficacy of elective regional lymph-node dissection in primary (stage I) malignant melanoma (FJ Lejeune)
24. Levamisole immunotherapy: basis and clinical trials in cancer patients (F Martin)
25. Clinical trials of levamisole in humans (DP Byar)
